The City Centre Volunteer Gardeners have restored and continue to care for the flower beds at City Hall and Norwich Railway Station.

We are an informal group of about 12 gardeners.

We meet regularly during the gardening year (but not always on the same day each week)

We restored and replanted the large rose bed in front of the Station and the twin beds in front of Norwich City Hall and now maintain both.

We garden for about 2 hours and then enjoy a cup of coffee together. Sometimes we organise a group lunch or outing.

We have established a WhatsApp group and we share pictures of our own gardens and other things of interest while we are unable to meet.

“We all love working on the beds at City Hall. We inherited a great design and planting thanks to George Ishmael and love to continue the use of colourful and flamboyant plants. We often get nice comments from passers by and sometimes we even get offers of help and new recruits”
